At the Wayne County Fair

LYONS HERITAGE SOCIETY and the Peppermint Museum participated in the Wayne County Fair! We supplied an exhibit for the WAYNE COUNTY WHO organization and the Wayne County Museum of History. The exhibit included the sale of Peppermint oil and Pat Gorthy's book "Peppermint Summer". Artifacts from the museum were on display.

The Peppermint Shoppe has added a few NEW items:

MELLOW MINTS, made from the original recipe of oil Guest Towels with the 17 Gold Medals embossed NEW book entitled " The Raging Erie" by Mark Ferrara Peppermint Tea from Cape Cod

The speaker at the annual meeting, Mark Ferrara is a professor of English at State University of New York. In celebration of the bicentennial of the canal "The Raging Erie" tells the vivid history of laborers and their families who lived, worked and died on the canal. Many details of their lives and experiences are included. The expansion came at great sacrifice to some.

Heritage Society Scholarship Winner

the sale of Peppermint oil and Pat Gorthy's book Ryan Hood was the recipient of the Heritage Society's $500 scholarship this year. Ryan plans to major in Computer Information Systems at FLCC this fall. He attended BOCES for Heavy Equipment, was a member of The Future Farmers of America Club and the Pickleball club.

He also works at Jim's Trailer World. Ryan enjoys history, so we hope he will come see us at the Hotchkiss in the future!

Artifacts Donated to the Museum

This summer we have acquired some special items of Lyons Past. In July, Gary Vardabash, who has been very generous in the past, donated a piece of Lyons Pottery. It's an interesting piece as it does not have a company name on it, only LYONS. Also, the latter half of it is painted green. THANK YOU, Gary!

Also, delivered to the museum was a box of LYONS miniature buildings from Carol Bailey! THANK YOU, Carol!

Gehrig Lohrmann donated a Lyons poster that depicts 1891 horse auction in Lyons. THANK YOU SO MUCH, Gehrig!

Celebration of Sesquicentennial Wayne County Grange

In January of 1874 there was a fury of Granges being organized in Wayne County. In fact five were organized in five days. You may ask what is the Grange. So let's go back to 1867. The National Grange was founded in Washington, DC by seven men and one woman. Following the Civil War President Johnson sent a man, Oliver H. Kelley, to survey agricultural conditions in the south. He found he was welcomed despite the acrimony because he wore his Masonic pin. After returning to Washington he discussed an idea for a fraternal farm organization that could bring the north and south together. Kelley found like minded individuals among other departmental government workers and they became the founders. After months of work the first meeting of National Grange was held on December 4,1867. It was not an easy or hasty organization as it took months of trial and error to get the Grange working. Officers had to be found and elected, degrees written and tried, money raised, order of business established and not all of the men and woman agreed on all matters. Because to that one woman, Caroline Hall, niece of Kelley, women were welcomed equally with men. Since its formation Grange has allowed women to vote, hold office, and speak their mind. Because women were able to hold office, many became lecturers or program directors. As they were interested in suffrage many speakers on that topic appeared and Grange was eventually in favor of women's rights. The Granger Laws limiting monopolies was one of the first issues fought by Granges. Rural Free Delivery was another direct result of Grange initiatives along with rural electrification and the interstate highway system. Currently broadband access and rural health especially mental
